So. Conn. edges men's gymnastics

The University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team lost a tough road meet last night to Southern Conn., 267.05-259.6.

The nationally ranked No. 14 team took five of the six events, dropping the UMass record to 3-2. "They chipped away at us all night," said UMass head coach Roy Johnson. Adding to UMass' demise, Southern Conn. swept the top four individual all-around scores.

One bright spot for the Minutemen was the pommel horse, the only event the team won.

Freshman Joe Haran tied with So. Conn.'s Greg Tricola and Hector Salazar in that event with a score of 8.9.

Haran earned more points for UMass by winning the horizontal bar with a score of 9.25.

After sitting out the meet against MIT, senior Dave DiNucci competed in the vault and the horse. Johnson said he was pleased with DiNucci's performance, although the gymnast still is not competing at 100 percent.

"Dave only performed in two events tonight, and he's usually one of the all-arounds," Johnson said. "He is not at full strength right now."

Southern Conn.'s Salazar scored an impressive 55.05 in the all-around while teammate Shawn Simpson placed with a score of 54.0.

Simpson also received a 9.6 on the floor exercise, his best event. The Minutemen next host Temple at 1 p.m. on Saturday in Boyden. Johnson said he expects a tough meet against an un-ranked Temple.

Leading the Owls is Bill Roth, who is one of the top five competitors in both the still rings and the parallel bars.
